

CONDENSED PRODUCT GUIDE

READY TO SERVE VS. CONDENSED

Ready to serve (RTS) products are made with juice, sugar and water in specific amounts to achieve the right balance.

Condensed products contain the appropriate amount of juice and sugar, but most of the water has been omitted. Customers add water before serving.

HOW TO PREPARE

For example, with a 4+1 product add 4 full containers of cold, filtered water to 1 full container of condensed product. To prepare smaller batches, simply reduce the amount of condensed product and water, by volume.

PREPARATION GUIDE

Product Type	Dilution ratio (Full container)	Smaller batches (mL)	Smaller batches (cups)	Smaller batches (fl oz)
3+1	3 containers water + 1 container product	3000 mL water + 1000 mL product	6 cups water + 2 cups product	24 oz water + 8 oz product
4+1	4 containers water + 1 container product	4000 mL water + 1000 mL product	8 cups water + 2 cups product	32 oz water + 8 oz product
6+1	6 containers water + 1 container product	6000 mL water + 1000 mL product	12 cups water + 2 cups product	48 oz water + 8 oz product

FINISHED PRODUCT

Product Type	Net finished product per half-gallon of condensed product
3+1	2 gallons finished product
4+1	2.5 gallons finished product
6+1	3.5 gallons finished product

THAWING INSTRUCTIONS

For best flavor, thaw frozen product in the refrigerator for 1 to 3 days. Shake well to ensure product is fully thawed and can be mixed. Product quality is best maintained if thawed under properly controlled conditions. Do not refreeze.

SHELF LIFE

Any refrigerated condensed product can be frozen before its "Best Before" date. Product properly date marked, frozen and kept at storage temperatures of less than 0 °F can be held for 18 months. After thawing, indicate date and use within 7-10 days.

HOW LONG CAN PRODUCT BE LEFT IN A DISPENSER?

For best results, product should be removed daily.
